Mike Adams: PAY ATTENTION: Here is a more concise scientific explanation of what I wrote in previous comment below: ACE inhibitors medications such as enalapril increase bradykinin levels by blocking the angiotensin-converting enzyme (ACE), which normally breaks down bradykinin. As bradykinin accumulates, it acts primarily on the endothelial

Mr. Mike Adams (Ametheos, NEO) pay attention to the following: How I saved my life during CoVid19. First, I did not take and refused the vaccine. Second, I temporarily STOPPED taking the Ace Inhibitor medication Enalapril 5mg, which increases vascular permeability and also increases bradykinin levels which alters the process in which cells

Well I think we know that, Mike. They are not really rebels, as we once knew them, right? They play right into the hands of the controllers, which is all part of the plan, so it's not surprising, and it's all a big part of the overall problem...the TRUE rebels, are few and far between, there doesn't seem to be enough of them, not anymore. And I don't think it's just

Mike, your logic regarding being shed on is flawed. The proteins being shed require a living host. If you are shed directly on by another person, you are infected. If the shedding person sheds onto the shopping cart, the spike proteins have not landed on a living host and therefore cannot survive so a person cannot be infected from touching the shopping
